LANDING, RUMOR FALSE

Gray Monoplane Sighted Over
Quebec Flown by Captain
Aviator, Is Report

BULLETIN
Ottawa, Ont.—(AP)—The agent of the Canadian national railway at Piquet river, reported to the office here that he had sighted a plane west of that point at 2:30 Thursday afternoon. No details as to the identity of the plane were available.

BULLETIN
St. Johns, N. F.—(AP)—Noon Thursday, near the end of the time limit for the St. Raphael and its flying princess to sight American land on their flight to Ottawa, passed with no word. At the earliest the monoplane was expected here around 4 o'clock Thursday morning. It could have been delayed by hours from that time by head winds. Winds in this vicinity were favorable for speeding the monoplane's trip. The St. Raphael's gasoline should be enough to stay in the air until 9:30 Thursday evening eastern standard time.

BULLETIN
Ottawa, Ont.—(AP)—Hope that a gray monoplane sighted over Saint Malo this forenoon might have been the St. Raphael. The plane was seen at a distance of about 10 miles from the town. It was flying at an altitude of 5,000 feet. Residents of St. Malo thought for a time it was the English plane. No word of the St. Raphael had been received here up to noon today.

NO REPORT OF PLANE
St. Johns, N. F.—(AP)—Dawn on the Newfoundland coast brought no sight of the word of the plane St. Raphael, which Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and her two escorts were winging their way across the north Atlantic. A light east wind was blowing, the weather was dull and overcast and visibility was low. Lightkeepers, who, acting on government orders, had kept a ceaseless vigil throughout the night, renewed their efforts as the hour approached when the big monoplane should be sighted as it raced toward the mainland.

SEEN ON IRISH COAST
The last definite word of the St. Raphael was the departure from the Irish coast into the great Atlantic ocean when she had put 370 miles behind her. That was at 12:10 Wednesday afternoon (7:10, eastern daylight time), nearly five hours after leaving England. After that the only news was a brief message from the Imperial Airways company, London, England, at the plane was still flying at 9:30 Wednesday (4:30, eastern daylight time). This was taken to mean that had covered about 1,400 miles and used the halfway mark between Ireland and Newfoundland.

The new leading lady Holstein is Pabst Holstein Cornflower, 11, a four-year-old cow, owned by Fred Pabst, and is a product of the Pabst family herd Oconomowoc. Last year's queen, Holsteink Pabst Cornflower, owned by Gustave Pabst, was not a contender this year. The fair's attendance is running nearly 9,000 ahead of last year, due to a fine crowd Wednesday. Some factories and places of business closed Thursday for Milwaukee day and the greatest crowd of the week was expected.

U. S. PREFERS ELDERLY MAN AS PRESIDENT

But Party Chieftains Don't Want Him Too Old—Try to Set Right Age

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1927, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Will age play a part in the next presidential campaign? One of the candidates has already argued that he is too old to run for the presidency. Looking over the list of those being mentioned for the presidency, the following table shows the present age and the age at which the candidate would be elected, be at the end of the next presidential term:

REPUBLICANS	PRESENT AGE	AGE IN 1933
Frank O. Lowden	66	72
Charles Evans Hughes	65	71
Vice President Dawes	62	68
Speaker Longworth	58	64
Herbert Hoover	53	59

DEMOCRATS

Evans Woodin, Ind.	63	69
Governor Smith	54	60
Gov. Donahoe, O.	54	60
Owen D. Young	53	59

Thus it will be seen that in the Republican race Mr. Hoover is the youngest of the group mentioned and even at the end of the next presidential term, which begins in March, 1929, and ends in March, 1933, Mr. Hoover, if the successful candidate, would still be younger than Messrs. Lowden, Hughes or Dawes, respectively, are now.

SMITH ALSO 'YOUNG'
Among the Democrats, Governor Smith is just a year older than Herbert Hoover. As a rule the politicians do not pay much attention to the age problem, though in the last Democratic national convention there was considerable discussion of the age of Senator Ralston of Indiana, who at one time was likely as the compromise candidate. Mr. Ralston died about a year later.

In the case of the late senator from Indiana, however, the politicians said he did not look particularly vigorous. None of the Republican candidates look old, in fact everyone of them appears to be in excellent health. But the question of age occasionally does arise when the older and younger men are contrasted. If the Republican should for instance nominate a man of 65 or 66 and the Democrats should name a man ten years younger, it would not fail to be an argument on the stump. Often, too, the discussion turns on the state of mind of a candidate toward an international crisis. The assumption is that the younger vigorously and will not allow it to drift along in the hope that it will right itself, which is not infrequently the case with older statesmen.

Few business corporations would think of selecting as the head of their immense enterprises men past sixty though the recent example of an efficiency given by the late Judge Gary is a notable exception. As a rule when big business executives pass sixty they begin to turn their thoughts to more leisure and less responsibility. The business of running a four billion dollar concern like the United States government plus the nerve-racking job of dealing with Congress is something that a few men past sixty would care to tackle if they had the chance.

KAUAKUNA MAYOR WANTS PROBE OF TELEGRAPH SYSTEM

Manager of Local Office Denies Negligence in Delivery of Message

Kauakuna—Mayor W. C. Sullivan has become incensed at the alleged poor service afforded him by the Postal Telegraph Co. on a wire sent to him by Senator Robert M. La Follette and will ask the Wisconsin Railroad commission for an investigation of the company.

Sullivan says Senator La Follette sent a telegram by Postal Telegraph on Monday, Aug. 29, announcing his decision to take part in the dedication services for the new La Follette park in this city. The message was sent from Madison to Kauakuna by way of the Appleton office of the company and Mayor Sullivan says the message was held in the Appleton office and later mailed to him without attempting to reach him by phone.

The mayor said he spent all day Tuesday at his office expecting a wire or telephone call but none came.

C. N. Czerniak, manager of the Appleton office of the Postal Telegraph Co. denies there was any negligence in the delivery of the LaFollette telegram to Mr. Sullivan. Mr. Czerniak says the records in his office show that the telegram was received about 8 o'clock in the morning and at least three attempts were made to reach Mr. Sullivan by telephone at his home and his office in Kauakuna. When repeated efforts to reach him by telephone were unavailing the message was mailed. Mr. Czerniak said. The manager said he believed there were notations on the message mailed to Mr. Sullivan of attempts to reach him by telephone.

LAW PROTECTS USE OF WORD "DRUGS"

Can't Use Word in Name of Store Unless It Is Registered With State

Madison—(UP)—You are allowed to operate a "drugless" drug store, but you can't tell anybody. Anybody that's the way the attorney general feels about it and he has the statutes to back up his contention. In an opinion from the state attorney's office Thursday, several drug stores in Madison, Prairie du Chien and Fond du Lac, were named as violators of the state's laws.

The opinion was given at the request of G. E. Krueger, attorney, president of the state board of Pharmacy. Mr. Krueger, among other questions, inquired whether it was lawful for a store not registered as a drug store to use the word "Drug" on the windows or awnings. The attorney general held this was unlawful.

The Fond du Lac case related to a store using the title "Drugless Drug Store." The attorney general explained that this also was against the law in that it "used the name 'drug' with an adjective" and because the store was not a registered drug store the title would necessarily be a violation.

In another opinion given to G. P. Hambrecht, director of the state board of education, the attorney general advised the education director concerning the disposition of a vocational school building in Green Bay. The building, formerly the Green Bay Y. M. C. A. building, had been purchased by the city council of that city on the recommendation of the board of education to be used as a vocational school.

The city council recently decided to use a portion of the building for a fire department house but this is not possible, according to the state's law interpreter, without the consent of the education officers.

Victor M. Stollis, district attorney of Eau Claire county, was advised that the sheriff of Eau Claire county had the right to sell a certain automobile if he was unable to find its owner. The machine was confiscated by the sheriff when he apprehended an alleged drunken automobile party. The owner of the car ran into a nearby woods when the sheriff stopped the car and has not been found since. Because of this the sheriff has been unable to serve a warrant on the owner and the attorney general advised him he was justified in selling the automobile.

SECURE WARRANTS FOR JONES AND MCGRATH

Warrants have been received in the office of the United States marshal in Milwaukee for the arrest of Arthur Jones, operator of a drink establishment on E. College-ave and for James McGrath, said to be his bartender. It was reported in Milwaukee on Thursday. It was said the two men are to be taken before Court Commissioner Watermolen in Green Bay "the latter part of this week." The warrants charge Jones and McGrath with violation of the federal prohibition laws. Dry agents, it is said, raided the Jones place more than a week ago in search of evidence.

TEACHERS READY AS SCHOOL STARTS

Plans Prepared to Start School Sessions Tuesday Without Confusion.

Instructions for teachers for the school year are being prepared by Ben J. Bohan, superintendent of schools and will be given out at the meeting Monday morning prior to the opening of school on Tuesday. A register containing names of teachers has been prepared for each teacher in the system.

The cost of running the schools each day is $2,500 and "we cannot afford to waste a day," the superintendent warns in a bulletin. He asked teachers to prepare their work so that regular classes will be held Tuesday, the first day, thus giving the children the benefit of that day's work.

A schedule of teachers' meetings has been arranged. Teachers are required to attend these regular meetings the superintendent said, and to forego other plans at those times. Special meetings called by the principals and superintendent are "not" to subordinate to other plans at those hours, he said.

Supply lists for the grades have been made out. The time allotment schedule for teaching of each subject in the various grades is a standard in instruction in the different schools. In the first grade there are 1,125 minutes of teaching a week; in the second, 1,080 minutes; and in the other grades, 1,040 minutes.

Names of children promoted to each grade are provided. Plan books in which to work out the class plans for the ensuing days will be given to each teacher. These books are provided to help the teacher arrange her work, the superintendent said, and to enable a substitute to take up her work without interruption.

MEATING PREPARES KITS FOR RURAL TEACHERS

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and his staff of assistants were busy Wednesday preparing school supplies to be distributed to teachers at the annual institute Friday and Saturday. TWO ASSESSMENTS CUT BY BOARD OF REVIEW

Two assessments were reduced by the board of review after a special hearing in the city hall Wednesday afternoon. The board session is to end Saturday. The session was started Monday, Aug. 22. The Wisconsin Wrecking company's assessment of the old building of the former Wisconsin State and Grain company on N. Superior-st., was reduced from $5,000 to $1,000 when it was shown that most of the buildings had been torn down but the assessment had never been lowered.

An assessment of the building formerly occupied by the Heliance Motor Truck company on W. Spencer-st., was reduced from $34,000 to $30,000 after John M. Balfelt, who recently bought the building at a public auction, pointed out that he paid $26,000 for the property. He said that the property should not be assessed for more than 50 per cent of the purchasing price.

BEAUTY HINTS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We oldsters are worried about the world. Isn't it a good thing the heavy old globe changes hands every generation? The young never worry. Their complacency and competence is magnificent indeed!

simply this: Belief in yourself, belief in your power to attract and achieve, belief in your beauty and character. You've never had that belief, dear, because Cherry and the rest of your family cheated you out of it. Faith's eyes were round with indignation. "But how can you do to me, George?"

herself responding slowly to the music of the gift with which to had presented her. Her heart, which had been beating for many hours with painful heaviness, became calmer, more normal. The lump of grief in her throat melted, giving her a feeling of ease and lightness she would never feel again. Oh how susceptible a woman was to the beneficent effect of being loved, she reflected. George was right. It gave her a new sense of herself, of worthiness. No wonder Clary bore her small baby with such gallantry, carried her beautiful bright head so high. She had been born with the gift which George had tried to give her. Faith. And as a consequence all things had come her way.

By Hal Cochran

WEE" Clowney, high up in the tree watched Mister Bear, and he said, "Oh, gee, you don't know how relieved I am. I'm filled with achin' bones. I guess the bear came down now and cross the little stream somehow. In case the bear comes back again, be sure and have some stones."

Said Scary, "Yes, he's gone for good. Just as we thought he would. I guess that you would also run, if rocks were thrown at you. We didn't want to hurt the bear, but threw the rocks to give a scare. It was a funny little hind and worked just as planned."

Then Clowney slid right down the tree. He was so careful, he didn't let the bears know he was down. He crept to see the bears didn't land upon the ground. "Well, but I said," was Clowney's cry. "And now to reach the other side of the stream, I'll have to wade over a little. I don't like to do that."

A Golly good, welly solemn face. "There are no plants in and the place. You'll have to find some other way. Why don't you try and swim?"

"Well, I don't know," was Clowney's cry. "I wouldn't take me long to reach that side and anyway, I'm tuck'ry tired and just don't feel in trim."

And so the whole bunch looked around in hope that something might be done to help poor Clowney join the bunch, but nothing was in sight. Then Carpy yelled, in cheerful tone, "Why there's a dandy, great big stone, right in the middle of the stream. That ought to help just right."

"Just jump on it, and have no fear. Then, one more jump and you'll be here. I am sure that is a statement that I will not have to prove." So Clowney promptly took a jump and landed on the rock korthump. And then a queer thing happened, "cause it was the last to move."

How To Play Bridge

The pointer for today is: WHEN CLOSED HAND IS LONGER THAN PARTNER IN PARTNER'S SUIT, DO NOT RETURN PARTNER'S LEAD. Yesterday's hand was:

South Declarer, Contract No Trump. To the first trick West led Trey of Clubs; North played Deuce; East, King; South, Four.

To the second trick East should lead Queen of Diamonds; South play Five of Diamonds; West Four of Diamonds; North, King of Diamonds.

East does not return West's Club because West has led his lowest and consequently cannot have had more than four originally (West led Trey, Deuce is in Dummy). With two Clubs originally in Dummy and two held by East, Closed Hand must have had five Clubs and that suit is Declarer's more than it is West's. East can see that with the Ace of Clubs, probably held by West, game can be saved if West lead a Diamond after one round.

"REDS" CASE DID NOT INCREASE DEMAND FOR RADICAL LITERATURE

Radical literature has not enjoyed a greater vogue because of the interest in the Sacco-Vanzetti case according to requests made at the Appleton public library, the librarians reported.

Libraries in some other cities have had more people asking for magazines and books on anarchism, socialism, communism and other of the radical movements. It has been indicated through newspapers, but no increase has been shown here.

If people are reading newspapers and magazines on the open racks at the library because of interest in the case where the two Italian radicals were executed last week on the charge of killing a paymaster seven years ago, it was not known at the library desk.

CONVERT CLASSROOMS INTO SCHOOL OFFICES

Small Enrollment in Lincoln School Results in Combining Classes

Two old classrooms in Lincoln school building will be used as art and health rooms this year as they are no longer needed for classroom purposes. Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, announced. The former sixth grade room will be used for the school nurses' office and other health purposes such as examinations by physicians. Miss Mary O'Brien and Miss Jane Barclay, nurses, will have their headquarters there.

The art room will be in the third grade room at the northeast corner of the building. Miss Dorothy Krippner, art supervisor, will have the office and will hold classes in art for senior high school students there. Art work for the senior high school will be extended this year to more advanced courses. No room was available in the high school building, it was found.

Because of the small enrollment at the Lincoln school four of the grades will be continued under two teachers this year.

The offices formerly used by the school nurses, art supervisor and Dr. Earl L. Baker, supervisor of music, will be the music office. Dr. Baker and Miss Irene Bidwell, music supervisor, will have their headquarters there.

FOOTBALL MEN CALLED FOR MEETING FRIDAY

Kaukauna — Thirty Kaukauna high school football men have been called for a meeting at the high school building on Friday afternoon. This will be the first football call of the year. The meeting was to be held on Thursday but it is understood that Harry "Pat" McAndrews, the new high school football coach, found it impossible to be in the city on that day because of a minor operation.

Equipment will be issued to the football candidates on Friday and the program will be explained to them. Practice will be started immediately. Most of the candidates for this fall's football team are juniors who have had two years of football training under William "Tiger Bill" Smith, former Kaw coach who now is at West High at Milwaukee. Early last season, before Mr. Smith had any intention of resigning as coach of the Oshkosh and Elkhart, he said he had the best material he ever had in the local school for this fall's team and he felt confident he could turn out a winning team again, one that would make Appleton play its best to win.

FARM GULLY RECLAIMED FOR TREES AND VINES

Nashville, Tenn. — (P) — A gully is not simply a gully to State Forester R. S. Maddox. To him it is the prospective site of a grove of trees which may earn money for the farmer, halt the erosion of his lands and hide an unsightly spot.

For 12 years he has carried on a campaign of "gully camouflage" in which Tennessee has been unique among other states. His method is to plow off the gully banks, build a few bush dams to check the sliding soil and set out black locusts, a fast-growing tree with "fence post" potentialities. Grasses and vines are also used.

The United States department of agriculture became interested in his reclamation work and as a result other states have followed Tennessee's lead.

200 EXPECTED AT ELECTRIC MEETING

Wisconsin Utilities Association to Meet in Madison Friday and Saturday

Madison, Wis., Sept. 1.—Electric companies representatives from all parts of Wisconsin will come to Madison for the annual convention of the electric section of the Wisconsin Utilities association Sept. 2 and 3. The convention is expected to attract between 150 and 200 delegates.

Addresses and discussions scheduled deal with subjects of vital concern to the people who live in cities as well as on the farms. Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin, and C. F. Broughton, Editor of the Sheboygan Press, are outstanding representatives of the public who will address the convention. Mr. Frank will present his idea of the part which the electric industry plays in the new industrial revolution, and Mr. Broughton will explain how the utilities can best serve the people, from the viewpoint of a newspaper editor.

R. G. Walter, chairman of the section, in announcing the program, states that the electric companies in Wisconsin serve approximately 500,000 customers. Of this total, he says, 400,000 are residential patrons and 100,000 are commercial lighting and power customers.

"During the past year there has been an increase of 38 per cent in the number of rural customers," says Chairman Walter. "The total number of utility farm customers at the end of June of this year was 13,719, or an increase in the past twelve months of 350."

"Through improvements in efficiency of steam plants the companies saved more than 70,000 tons of coal last year than in the previous year. These savings were passed on to the public in reduced rates or in extending lines into unprofitable rural territory." He points out that utility rates are lower than before the war and that electricity is the only commodity in the general cost of living that has not gone up in price to the public.

Monte stars as a modest young Idaho inventor and gas station owner, who breaks the monotony of life by pitching for the team that has its diamond on the lot adjoining his property.

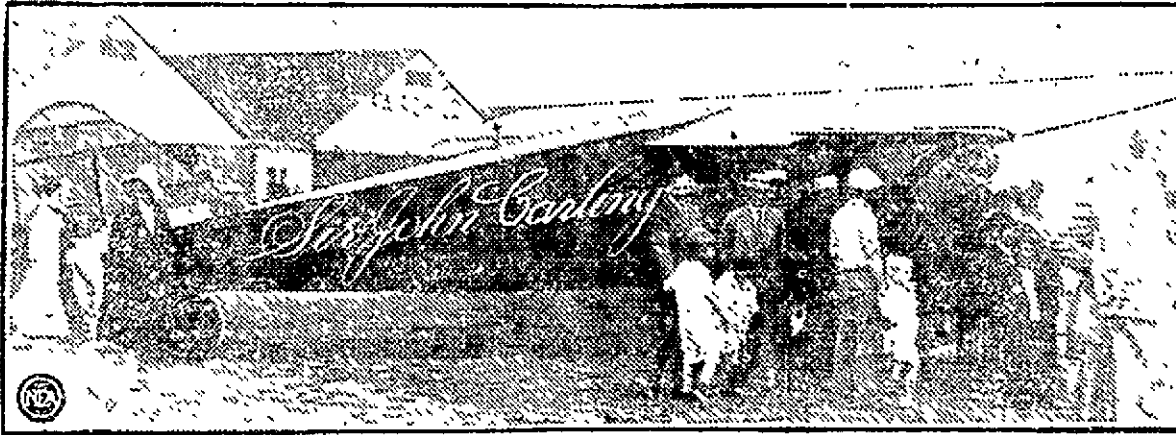

BRINGING UP FATHER IN POLITICS

With all the world singing to the praises of daring aviators finding new worlds to conquer, "Jiggs," of "Bringing Up Father" fame has decided on entering the hazardous yet fascinating field of politics. If you don't believe it, the announcement of the new musical comedy at the Appleton Theatre, for a matinee and night performance, the matinee commencing immediately after school dismissals, on Wednesday September 7th, will testify to the fact. It is the latest of the "Bringing Up Father" in "Politics" and will place to the fore those beloved characters of George McManis' comics, "Jiggs," "Maggie," his terminant better half, "Dinty Moore" and others whose adventures in the popular cartoons are daily exploited to millions through the medium of newspapers throughout the universe. The very names of these folks of the comic strips is an immediate assurance of unadulterated fun, frolic, merriment, hilarity, screams, surprises and revelry. A classic in the world of modern entertainment, with all the good things that help to make life colorful, happy and devoid of its inevitable tragedy, disillusion and disappointments. You, who have dabbled sometime or other in the affairs of your city, town, hamlet, state or county visualize the amount of blissful vicissitudes that the majority of national figures are bound to encounter to the accompaniment of infectious melodies, situations and the unexpected. Surely a treat enough to whet the appetite of the most sanguine mortal in or out of captivity.

Three Planes Hop Off On Great Air Ventures Across Atlantic Ocean--Two Bound For England, One For Canada

C. J. (Duke) Schiller, left, and Phil Wood, right, and their monoplane the Royal Windsor, which hopped off from Wallerfield, Windsor, Ont., at 9:48 Thursday morning morning for Windsor, England. They made a beautiful takeoff, soon disappearing in the east.

Here is the monoplane, Sir John Carling, bearing Lieutenant William V. Medcalf, left, and Captain Terrence Tully, Irish airman, who took off at 5:34 Thursday morning for their flight from London, Ont., to London, Eng. Perfect weather attended the takeoff, and the machine made a beautiful start, with Tully acting as pilot and Medcalf as navigator. Their flight was originally planned as a non-stop venture, but today's undertaking was to see a stop at Harbor Grace, N. F., where additional fuel was to be taken aboard.

No word was received up to early Thursday morning of the 63-year-old Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and her companions, Capt. Leslie Hamilton, above, and Col. F. P. Minchin, right, who left England Wednesday on their nonstop flight to Canada in their plane, St. Raphael. The princess, who is a licensed pilot and the financial backer of the venture, was confident yesterday that the flight would be completed without mishap. She was given good luck wishes at the start by the Catholic archbishop of Cardiff, who blessed the plane.

Chicago—(P)—Daily workouts at the camp of Jack Dempsey have indicated that the ex-champion's chief aim now is the development of a defense against left jabs.

The former heavyweight titleholder went through a fast round with Jack McCann, the St. Paul heavy-weight, Wednesday. In the three minutes the two mated each other, McCann repeatedly slipped through his left to Dempsey's chin and mixed it occasionally with a right cross that had Jack worried.

Dempsey's in fighting kept McCann from doing any real damage and the round ended with matters fairly well even.

ARE THEY STARS?

Manager George Moriarty of the Detroit Tigers in a recent interview said the Chicago Cubs didn't have an outstanding star. National League in rebuttal, want to know how Catcher Hartnett and Pitchers Root and Carlson are rated.

This Speaker of Washington, who landed Pitcher Hudlin for the Cleveland Indians in his last year as manager of the team, says the youngster is the best right-handed prospect in the American League.

Game Club Will Take National League Flag

BY BILLY EVANS

The home stretch of the National League race, scheduled for the west during the month of September, will be a real test of the gameness of the four teams.

I wrote these lines in late August, the first four clubs in the senior organization are separated by the rather narrow margin of three and one-half games. Chicago, in first place, leads New York, in fourth place, by that scant margin.

That seems hardly enough of a lead to warrant a prediction that the Cubs are in.

The St. Louis Cardinals, of the four teams, have come to play down the home stretch. The Cubs have approximately seven games less to play during the remainder of the season than the Cards have, so whatever advantage that angle of the present standing has, must rest with the Cards.

Chicago, with a two and one-half game lead over the second-place Cardinals, rules favorably, but it doesn't take much of a slump to wipe away such a margin.

Recently the Washington club of the American League showed how quickly a slump in play can erase twice as big a margin as the Cubs now enjoy.

During July and early August, Washington played better than any club in the American League. It wasn't any more than that, however. I consider Washington a team that the ball club will manage.

Just before coming to the west, an invasion of that club by the Yankees was scheduled to take place. At the time the Yankees were all in the west in front.

I know for a fact that Washington had visions of a west tour. That would have been the last of the Yankees of the season and the Yankees would have been in the west.

The Yankees' trip west was won three of the four and left Wash-

GERMAN BAKER WINS LONG ONTARIO SWIM FROM 31 SURVIVORS

Ernst Vierboetter, Channel Swimmer, Makes 21 Miles in 11 Hours

Toronto, Ont.—(P)—A German baker, Ernst Vierboetter, was $20,000 richer Thursday for having conquered a 21-mile triangular stretch in Lake Ontario's chilly waters Wednesday in 11 hours, 42 minutes, 12 seconds. At 12:45 o'clock Thursday morning, three and one half hours after Vierboetter had crossed the finish line, Georges Michel, a French baker, came in second to win second prize of $7,500.

William Erickson of New York, completed the last lap shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday morning, finishing third. He was the last to remain in the water.

The winner of more than 200 starters early were forced out of the grueling endurance test, and 8 hours after the field was sent away there were only 31 survivors. The ice cold water and the terrific pace of Vierboetter, averaging 30 strokes to the minute, was too much even for the stalwart George Young, 17 year old Canadian, who had just captured first place in the Catalina Marathon.

Although Young had been named the favorite and had taken an early lead, he collapsed and had to be taken from the water shortly after the five-mile mark had been passed. Shortly before his withdrawal Vierboetter had crossed the line, passed him and taken a substantial lead.

Vierboetter swam a very remarkable race and even as he took the turn into the last mile there was no quickening of his stride. He appeared to be strong as he walked into the arms of his handlers to receive a tremendous ovation.

Michel who swam into second place shortly before 8 o'clock Wednesday night, finished in the stretch with a 34 to the minute trudgeon. He also was in good condition.

None of the women entrants could stand the grind. Miss Martha Stager of Portland, Ore., was the last woman to quit. She was taken out of the water at 12:30. Thursday morning, Dottie Moore Schoemmel, Edith Hedlin and Miss Ethel Hertie, among the favorites of the women competitors, gave up when darkness settled over the course.

One thrill after another was packed into the marathon. Several swimmers came near drowning and were floundering and sinking as rescue boats drew alongside them. One man, Michael Hamburg, totally blind, struggled on for several miles behind the tinkling of a bell on his pilot boat. Leo J. Smith, Keokuker, N. Y., although legless had covered only a half mile when he saw Elmer J. Neubeck of Buffalo sinking. He dived and almost brought him to the surface. Smith was weakening in his rescue efforts when seven other swimmers went to his assistance. All were disqualified.

The victory of Vierboetter marked the first time any swimmer has won two endurance tests. The giant German conquered the English channel, Michel also holds the distinction of swimming the channel but he missed the Wrigley first prize by hours.

WINSTON GUEST

Only a reserve this year, Frederick Winston Churchill Guest seems assured of a regular berth on the United States polo team within a season or two. It was first thought the former Yale star would play against the British Army-in-India team this year, but the powers-that-be relegated him to the post of alternate so as to keep intact the winning combination of 1924. Guest, only 21 years old, shows possibilities of future greatness.

CENTER, WINGS BIG PROBLEM TO MURRAY

Marquette Squad With Many Vets Back, Start Work on Sept. 15

Milwaukee—In less than three weeks Coach Frank J. Murray and his candidates for his 1927 Marquette University Golden Avalanche football machine will be in training on the field at Lake Mead, and intensive training it will be for the Murray men face an extremely heavy early-season schedule.

This year, for the first time, the Marquette squad is not going into training until Sept. 15, thus falling in line with many other aggregations, including the conference teams. Last year, the training season opened Sept. 15.

When the Blue and Gold gridders start their fall training work, there will be but nine days remaining until the opening game of the season with St. Viator college in Milwaukee, Sept. 24. Lawrence college comes to Milwaukee a week later, Oct. 1, and then comes the journey east to meet the Army at West Point, N. Y., Oct. 8. Thus it is a gigantic task, which Coach Murray and his assistants, Freeman Fitzgerald and Lloyd Scott.

If capable men are developed for two or three vacancies on the Marquette eleven, the Golden Avalanche should turn out a good season. Veterans lost from the successful team of 1926 include Don Craine, center; Jack Garrity and Les Gerlach, ends and Jimmie Grogans, halfback. Thus, the coaches' biggest problem will be to find a pair of ends and a center for the 1927 edition of the Avalanche.

Lettermen who will be back in the fold include Capt. Joe Leary, Jamesville and Harry Chaney, Eau Claire, fullbacks; Walter Gilbert, Merrill, and Bob Crowley and Al Hurley, Milwaukee, halfbacks; Eddie O'Neill, Milwaukee, center; Rupert O'Keefe, Cassville, N. D., and Cornelius Dunn, Milwaukee, quarterbacks; Guido Gauckler, Milwaukee, and Len Kampine, Marinette, guards; Jerry Kelly, Chicago, Charles Klaus, De Pere, Dan Smith, Grand Forks, N. D., and Oliver Dostler, Houshank, Mich., tackles, and John Padon, New Richmond, end.

GENE WILL TOUR EUROPE AFTER DEMPSEY BATTLE

Chicago—(P)—Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, has announced that the heavyweight champion will tour the world following his fight with Jack Dempsey here Sept. 22. The tour will be made, win, loss or draw, he said.

"Gene will be accompanied by his pal and confidant, Eddie Egan, former heavyweight champion of Yale and an Oxford scholar. Gibson said, "Several members of British royalty now living in London are partly responsible for the champion's decision to girdle the globe.

Hunting of wild animals in Africa and an extended visit to the continent will be part of the schedule which is still in embryo."

BREWERS WIN THIRD IN FOUR FROM HENS

Milwaukee—Casey Stengel is still wondering how the Brewers lost those 57 games which are charged against him in the team standings. The late league leaders took another on the chin Wednesday, 9 to 5, making the fifteenth defeat in 22 starts with Milwaukee this year.

Ole Orval conducted the sad rites of the daily interment. That is, the slim southpaw read the riot act to the Hens until the ninth when his zip-line shoe became nothing but Mother Goose rhymes. The big rescue man, Roy Sanders, was then called to attempt to avenge a slumping arm when the last inning only began to take dangerous proportions.

STEINBERG WINS MEET: BUT MAY REPLAY MATCH

Dan Steinberg, Jr., won the 1927 Junior Championship of the U. S. Golf Association at the Westchester Country Club in New York. He won by a margin of 10 strokes over George N. Ballard, but the match had to be played over, this official said. Though both contestants are satisfied with the results, on 18 holes, it was decided that the final match in a 36-hole championship must be 36 holes.

Steinberg, 18, and Ballard, 19, were both amateurs. As yet there has been no final word as to whether the match will be played over on 36 holes or 54 holes.

NAMING SEASON'S BEST 3-YEAR OLD IS DIFFICULT JOB

Varied Opinion Reigns Among Track Followers as to Year's Champion

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York—Who is the best three-year-old of the season? Horsemen everywhere will argue many a drink full and winter afternoon trying to answer that question. The historic Travers Stakes at Saratoga, supposed to settle the thing definitely, failed. On the contrary, the surprising victory of Brown Bud complicated matters horribly.

Brown Bud, just a good runner as runners go, flashed to the front under the guiding quip of assembled judges and fans to beat some tried and true first-runners.

Bostonian won the Prentiss with his stable-mate, Whiskery, behind him. This order was reversed at the Kentucky Derby.

Then Chance Shot won the Withers and the Belmont Stakes impressively, only to be beaten by the lightly regarded Kentucky 24 in the Kentucky Stakes at Aqueduct. A week later Kentucky 24 was beaten by Don Dan at Empire City.

Then came Saratoga—the track that has been notoriously treacherous to highly rated three-year-olds. Chance Shot was easily beaten on his first appearance. Whiskery tried to give weight to Montferri and failed and Bostonian was no more successful in his starts.

Then—the historic Travers Stakes. Even admitting the three-year-olds of 1927 are far below the quality of those of last season, it does not lessen the shock of the victory of Brown Bud.

The arguments will wax furiously. Who is the best three-year-old? And the answer, hidden among muffled cries of "fake," is—who cares now?

GENE REGRETFUL AS HE LEAVES FOR CHI

Speculator, N. Y.—(P)—Gene Tunney turned from the quiet of the Adirondack hills Thursday to face, in Chicago, a final drive to the peak of physical condition and the challenge of the man who lost the crown before Gene's flying fists last fall.

Regretfully the titleholder went about the task of packing his things for the three weeks training period at the Cedar Crest country club at Lake Villa, Ill. That will add the final touch to his preparations for his second battle with Dempsey in the Chicago Stadium, Sept. 22. With sparring partners and handlers, Tunney will motor east this evening to Utica and board an express train that is scheduled to land him in Chicago before noon Friday.

TWO RIVERS PROTESTS KROMERS' TITLE CLAIM

Two Rivers—The Two Rivers Alumnus Goods baseball team has protested the claim of the Milwaukee Shore league flag on grounds that they have not played the same amount of games as have the Kromers.

The Kromers have won thirteen and lost two while the local team has won eleven and lost two. The Alumnus lost on games when they were routed out and when the Cudahy team failed to put in appearance. The locals defeated the Kromers twice, once in an exhibition game. They are fighting for a chance to play the Kromers once more. If they win they will take the undisputed supremacy of the league.

SPORT BRIEFS

Dayton, O.—(P)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland, won from Joe Sekyra, Dayton (12).

Red Holloway, Indianapolis, knocked Mike Kelly, Cleveland (4).

Tough on Schalk
Ray Schalk admits that sitting silent on the bench, managing a losing team, is a far more tough job than working regularly every day back of the plate.

Falk Eager for Change
Bib Falk, one of the best outfielders in the game when he feels in the mood is said to be dissatisfied at Chicago and anxious for a change of scenery.

Is Sports Writer
Billy Sims, a qualifier in the national amateur meet, is a Milwaukee sports writer.

CONYO, RADICK OUT

In addition to these vets, a score of other players of 1926 season will return to fight for regular berths while the oncoming crop of sophomore candidates is promising and bodies hot competition for some of the positions on the team. Included among the 1926 fall stars who will be eligible this fall are: Jim Kelly, Merrill, Elmer Campbell and Kenneth Radick, Green Bay, Gilbert Conyon, Redwood Falls, Minn.; Bill Abbott, Bay City, Mich.; John Vandenberg, Escanaba, Mich.; Walter Westergren, Muskegon, Mich.; Francis Lincoff, Portage, Paul Kelly, Grove City, Minn.; Ed Donnelly, Bloomington, Ill.; Ambrose Smith, Tomahawk, Jack Schumacher, Shawano, Neil Gonyo, Berlin, Walter Kuchensberg, Marinette.

Cornell Game Good Early Test For Badger Eleven

Madison—Coach Dick Barker will again bring his Cornell College eleven to Camp Randall this fall to play the varsity on Wisconsin's 1927 football schedule. The game will be played on the first day of October, 15 days after the Badger squad reports for their practice season.

Cornell, playing the Michigan style of game, will attempt to score for a 21 to a defeat handed them by the Cards in the initial contest last fall. Due to injuries most early in the season, the Little Iowa college was forced to accept a fourth place rating in the Midwest conference last year.

Nearly the entire backfield was composed of new men, which offset the good line material. Barker's only valuable asset, Coach Thistlethwaite of the Badgers expects a more lively test with Cornell this season. More than 500 men on the roster of the Mount Vernon school. Then too, the

ROUNDERS WIN FLAG IN KIMBERLY LEAGUE

Wrinkles Rounders copped the 1927 Kimberly Twilight Softball League banner by topping the second place Villagers, 3-2, Monday evening in the last battle of the season. This was the third time the Rounders ended the season on top.

The Kimberly Villagers rest in second place with five wins and six defeats, just a game above the Legion squad which had five wins and seven defeats. The Clubhouse Boosters with four victories and six defeats are just a game from third and a game and a half from second.

The Rounders took the lead in the first game when two scores came over. The Villagers followed up with runs in the fourth but the Rounders scored again in the fifth.

The Villagers registered their last run in the sixth. Only seven innings were played when the game was called on account of darkness. The Rounders had eight hits to four for the Villagers.

A Courtney had two singles and two runs, Williams a three bagger and a run, and Krueger a double and a single, for the winners. For the losers, Ritten had a double and a run, V. Courchane a single and a run, and Schertz, a single and a run. The batteries were Courchane and Williams for the winners, and Ritten and Schwanke for the losers.

PIRATES WIN TWO; PULL UP ON CUBS

Idle Bruins Watch Lead Phils Lose

The lead of Chicago Cubs in the National League race stood at one game Thursday. At one time early in the last season invasion they had a margin of six full games. While the Cubs were idle Wednesday, the Pirates were winning both ends of a double header from the Phillies, in preparation for entertaining the Cubs. The Cubs had to toll 12 runs in the first of a 3-2 decision in the opener but staged a four run surge in the ninth inning of the second for a 7-2 victory.

The world's champion St. Louis Cardinals gained a little ground over the Giants by trimming Brooklyn, 3-1.

Adolph Luque, Cincinnati right hander, held the Braves in check and earned a 1-0 victory. The Yankees trampled the Boston Red Sox, 10-2. Ruffing fanned Ruth, Gehrig and Mousil in order in the first with two runners on the bases but the Yanks got to him later for 13 hits, including two home runs by Tony Lazzari and another by Babe Ruth, whose total now stands at 43, two better than Gehrig's.

After twelve straight defeats Washington came to life and trounced the Jackmen, 5-2.

The Browns broke their losing streak and drubbed Detroit in both games of a double header, 3-1 and 4-3.

JOHNSON'S PLAY WAS BIG HELP TO TILDEN

On the last four occasions that Bill Tilden has clashed with little Bill Johnston in the national tennis finals he has emerged victorious each time. That would make it seem that Tilden either had complete mastery over Johnston or else he was simply a jinx for the diminutive Californian.

No doubt Johnston regards Tilden as the original hoodoo man, yet Tilden, on the other hand, gives up Johnston credit for developing his backhand stroke, one of his greatest assets. He said he early learned he had to do it if he was to have the upper hand.

It was back in 1919, when the two first met, that Tilden learned Johnston could pound his backhand stroke to a pulp. At that time, he had a good defensive backhand stroke, but nothing to offer on the offense. He worked diligently indoors during the winter of 1919-1920 and finally developed an offensive as well as a defensive backhand stroke.

To this feature of his play, Tilden gives credit for whatever margin of victory he has attained over Johnston in the last seven years. By an analysis of Johnston's play against him, he learned his own game and eliminated it from most champions lean to originality in methods. Tilden is a firm believer in the value of imitation. He says that the greatest help for an ambitious youngster is to watch the play of the stars, and in trying to imitate them it is but natural that he will develop the best in his own style. Tilden doesn't favor imitation that destroys individuality but merely destination that helps to bring out the best in one's own ability.

Last year Tilden after six successive wins was shorn of his title of champion but there are many who believe he will regain it this year.

Kamm's Hitting Weak

The failure of Willie Kamm to hit in anything like his regular form, which at best is considerably shy of the Ruth-Gehrig combination, has been one of the reasons for the poor showing of the Chicago White Sox after a great start.

Ray Schalk May Follow Collins To Get "Boot"

Chicago—Will Ray Schalk, one of the greatest catchers ever to don a mask, go the way of the other White Sox managers who have failed to come up to the requirements of Owner Charles Comiskey?

When Eddie Collins was summarily deposed as manager of the Sox last fall, the action of the Chicago magnate was widely commented upon. Most of the experts felt Comiskey had made a mistake. It was believed that Collins had done as well with the club as anyone could.

Comiskey is a stern and relentless taskmaster and when pressed for his reasons for releasing Collins simply said, in his opinion Collins was not getting the proper work out of the club. In brief, the showing of Collins in finishing the season with 81 victories against 72 defeats, also winning the city series from the Cubs, was a disappointment.

In changing managers Comiskey expressed the belief that the dynamic Schalk would do much better than the rather easy-going Collins.

The first 50 games of the year made it seem as if Comiskey was right, for the record of the Sox showed a mark of some 15 games better than .500.

Since that time the club has slumped badly, and with twice that many games out of the way, has fallen considerably under .500. With the Cubs going big, the reversal of form by the White Sox has played havoc with attendance. That is why Comiskey is hoped to replace Schalk.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

FLORA CARTWRIGHT, child of her mother, VERA CAMERON, for her old maidish ways, out-of-date hairdress, and business-like manner. That same day Vera is promoted to assistant manager of the Peach Bloom cosmetics. Jerry Macklyn, new advertising manager of Peach Bloom Cosmetics, Jerry instantly proposes as an advertising scheme to transform Vera, with the aid of Peach Bloom cosmetics, into a beauty and to photograph her in each stage of the transformation. Vera indignantly refuses and resolves to resign.

She reconsiders, however, when she falls suddenly in love with a man whom she hears called SCHUYLER. She hears him tell a companion he is going to Lake Minnetonka in June.

KITTY PROCTOR, a professional demonstrator, whom Jerry Macklyn agrees to make Vera over. Vera's emerald eyes cause Jerry to remember an uncaptioned Sunday supplement picture he has in his desk and he asks Kitty to use the picture as a model.

At the end of three weeks, Vera and Jerry are in love with a man whom she hears called SCHUYLER. She hears him tell a companion he is going to Lake Minnetonka in June.

ROUTE SCHLEE AND BROCK ARE TAKING IN ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT

This map shows the route which Edward F. Schlee and William Brock are following in their flight around the world. Taking off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in their monoplane, Tripe of Detroit, the two men are determined to circle the globe and come back to Harbor Grace in 15 days, thus cutting the present record of 28 days nearly in half. The first leg of the journey—the trans-Atlantic hop to London—was made on schedule.

take me on as a substitute sweet-heart for three weeks—

"Jerry! Don't be an idiot!" Flora cried sharply, with a warning flash of her blue eyes at Vera. "That's dangerous business and you know it."

"Of course I do," Jerry Macklyn admitted firmly. "Maybe I want to be dangerous—for Vee-Vee. At any rate, here's my proposition—take it or leave it: I'll be your around for three weeks. We'll dine together, go to theaters, dance, play golf on Saturdays and Sundays. And all the time I'll coach you in the ways of a woman with a man."

Before the girl could answer the doorbell shrilled. Flora flew to answer it, throwing a gay comment over her shoulder: "I told Peter to stay away, but I knew he couldn't do it. I don't know what I'm going to do with the poor, infatuated infant."

But it was not Peter. It was the uniformed elevator boy, delivering an immense box of flowers.

"Peter is so extravagant," Flora murmured, a pleased smile playing over her face. "Then suddenly her smile was wiped out; her blue eyes turned to ice. 'It's for you, Vera. From Peter, I suppose. I think, Jerry,' she turned to the embarrassed young man, 'that your time could be spent to better advantage in teaching a passe middle-aged woman how to hold her suitors. Vee-Vee doesn't seem to be in any urgent need of instruction.'"

Flora flashed an April smile at Jerry over Vee-Vee's shoulder. "I've been so bored with poor, dear Peter. I'm glad he's at last taken 'no' for an answer. You don't know, Jerry, what a relief it will be to me to associate with a clever, mature man, a real man of the world! We'll have great fun watching the youngsters, won't we, Jerry?"

Jerry Macklyn rumbled his incredible red hair with a distracted hand, looked as if he were about to run for his life; then a pair of emerald eyes flashed a provocative, challenging glance at him, an adorable mouth dimpled, and he muttered weakly, "Great! Good! Good! What have I let myself in for!"

Jerry Macklyn makes an unusual

request of Vee-Vee in the next chapter, just as she is about to start for Minnetonka.

WISCONSIN CATTLE TAKE MOST PRIZES AT STATE FAIR

LA CROSSE ANIMAL CHOSEN HOLSTEIN GRAND CHAMPION

King Homestead Piebe Lad, 2-year-old, is New Monarch of State Herds

Milwaukee—(P)—The great Holstein herds of Wisconsin bowed to a new monarch Tuesday night and at the same time a new contender for the national grand championship loomed on the horizon when King Homestead Piebe Lad, a two-year-old owned by J. D. McDonald, La Crosse, won the grand championship at the state fair.

The coveted crown went to McDonald's young bull only after a long examination of senior and junior champions by R. E. Haeger, Algonquin, Ill., the judge.

Last year's grand champion was Sir Forbes Ormsby Hengerveld, owned by a Racine and Waukesha co. pool. He was not entered this year to defend his crown.

Wisconsin cattle took practically all the championships awarded Tuesday. The senior and grand champion Brown-Swiss bull is Meadow Green John, owned by W. A. Drollinger, Aurora, and the grand champion is Carl Fawcett's Bull, owned by Fred Reuter, Lone Rock.

Only the bull championships were awarded in the Jersey breed. W. S. Dixon, Brandon, took junior and grand championships with Bessie Fontaine's Duke, and the senior championship went to Hugo Frost, Milwaukee, on Oxford Noble.

Jersey breeders took home the ribbons and banner offered for milking shorthorns. R. W. Lamb and son took the junior and grand championship on Lady's Duke, and also the senior and grand championships for females on Isabel's Dairy Lady, James Madison, and son won the junior female championship with Rosa Lady's Sister. No senior bulls were entered.

The first outbreeder to break into the elite circle was H. P. Olson, Alton, Ill., who took senior and grand championships in the red polled class with his bull, Great Teddy, and junior championship with his bull, David's Ted. He also took senior and grand championships on his cow, Lena Charmer, but the junior female championship went to John A. Curran, Slinger, on Susie.

OLD CHAMP REIGNS
Pay Check, owned by Eugene Croft and son, Lancaster, defended his title of grand champion bull of the Duror breed and he defeated all comers. He weighed in at 1,607 pounds.

In the Hampshire breed the grand champion bull is owned by C. R. Gletty, Sandwich, Ill., and the grand champion cow is owned by John L. Oliver, Kewanee, Ill. The grand champion Berkshire bull is owned by A. W. Bemiller and son Waukesha, Ill., and the grand champion cow by the same firm.

The real battle in the sized class began Wednesday morning with the judging of Poland China, large Yorkshires and spotted Poland Chinas. Many boars and sows showing topped the 1,000 pound mark.

The junior championship was won by Nirvana Ormsby Lad, owned by a pool of Sheboygan breeders E. C. Wipperfurth, Louis Schreiber and E. J. Bouck.

ATTENDANCE IMPROVES
The attendance Tuesday was slightly better than that of Tuesday last year, but not quite up to the deficit of Monday under Monday of the 1926 fair. Tuesday's attendance was 39,417 compared to 39,019 last year. The grandstand drew a big crowd both after-noon and evening. The automobiles races always prove a good attraction.

On the politicians were at the fair Wednesday for it was state and governor's day, with Governor Zimmerman addressing the grandstand crowd at 4 o'clock.

Racers and trotters supplanted the touring automobile on the track Wednesday for a program of harness racing under the great western circuit.

AGAIN WINNER

P. H. Kasper of Bear Creek, who maintained his position among the best cheesemakers this week at the Wisconsin State fair at West Allis, Mr. Kasper was awarded first place for unaged American cheese, with a score of 96, and second place for aged American cheese. He shared honors with E. F. Minicheske of Clintonville, who won first prize for aged American cheese with a score of 96, and second place for unaged American cheese.

Oswald Schneider of Appleton, was awarded second place for brick cheese.

INFERIOR CREAM IS TAX ON PRODUCERS
Needless Extra Labor in Making Produce Marketable is Result, Expert Says

Urbana, Ill.—Poor grade cream acts as a boomerang and comes back at the farmer who produces it as an additional tax, according to P. D. Sannmann of the University of Illinois.

In addition to the numerous taxes levied by the state and government, the farmer makes one for himself in producing a poor quality cream.

"It takes extra machines, materials and labor to make a marketable butter from poor cream," says Sannmann. "And this extra burden of expense goes back to the farmer by way of lower prices for his cream."

Furthermore, the best butter which brings several cents a pound more on the market than the poorer grades, can be made by creameries only from the best cream. Thus if creamery men got only high quality cream, they would be in a better position to pay a higher price for it.

"Creameries often are criticized for accepting inferior cream and making it into butter," he continues. "This, however, does not excuse the producer who offers such cream for sale. The cream producer is responsible for the quality of his cream as long as it stays in his possession."

SPRAY ALFALFA WEEVIL
Spraying with calcium arsenate is the most dependable means for controlling alfalfa weevil, responsible for destruction of half the first cutting and nearly all the second cutting of the alfalfa crop in several states of the Great Basin. The best time to spray is just before the larvae reaches its height.

MANY USES FOR PRUNES
Once a boarding house delight, the prune has worked itself to the top. It is now used in banking and in the manufacture of ice cream and candy.

A fellowship in food research, maintained at the University of California by the California Prune and Apricot Growers' association, used prune pulp as the basis for 19 different dishes.

One of the major problems confronting South Dakota and other western states is the jack rabbit. South Dakota is combating this menace by establishing commercial stations to buy jack rabbit skins. Last winter's bounty paid for jack rabbit skins totalled $50,000.

SCION OF EDUCATOR AND PRESIDENT IS BIG JERSEY OWNER

Grandson of Garfield Finds Farming Better Than Teaching and Politics

Concord, Mass.—The grandson of the martyred President Garfield, and the son of President Garfield of Williams college, is a true "dirt" farmer. A few miles out of this historic city, stands the old fashioned colonial house that is the home of Mason Garfield.

He is a tall, strong, sunburned young fellow who would rather milk cows and build up a reputation as a Jersey breeder, than be a diplomat or a college professor.

On a week day you are sure to find him in his working clothes, for River Road farm is not one of those fancy playthings some wealthy men maintain for amusement. It is a strictly business proposition, where dairying in a modern way is carried on.

One hundred Jerseys furnish a considerable quantity of milk, and it is a man-sized job to run the place and attend to the details.

So modest is young Garfield that many of the neighbors, among whom he has lived many years, do not know of his famous family connections. He has earned and maintained his place in the community as a hard working young farmer who has achieved unusual success as a dairyman.

STARTS WITH ONE COW
It was only ten years ago that he started with one Jersey cow for family use. He intended to do general farming. But he developed the "cow fever" and with the encouragement of the doctors of Concord, who wanted certified milk, he began to increase his herd. From that modest start, he has come to be recognized as one of the foremost Jersey men in the country, and has the second largest herd in Massachusetts.

At first young Garfield did all the work himself—the milking, care of the cows and the delivery. Today, his trucks go into Boston, into Brookline and Newton, and during the summer he even delivers along the north shore for his winter customers. He insists that they have his milk the year round.

Even today, when the work is rushing, he thinks nothing of taking a truck and making one of the routes himself.

"I've always wanted to be a farmer ever since I was a child," Garfield explains. "My grandfather had a wonderful farm in Ohio and when I was young I spent a great deal of time there."

But his parents wanted him to get a regular education, and after he graduated from Williams college, he took a graduate course at Harvard and received a master's degree in literature.

FOUND CITY IRKSOME
Then for several years he was in business in Boston, but the city's confinement was irksome to him. Finally the present farm was bought.

From the first, he decided he would have the best stock possible. He would have one good cow, rather than two fairly good ones. He has specialized in the Sophie Tormentor strain, and today, with over a hundred head, he is known as one of the outstanding breeders of this particular strain in the United States.

He has been working regularly to produce the milk which is often less than four hours old when delivered.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ON FARMS AROUND CICERO

Cicero—Otto Noack is painting his barn, and William Noack is painting his house and barn. Richard Goerl, also had his house painted last week.

Carl Moeller is building a wagon shed, attached to the barn. Henry Moeller reports a very good yield of rye. From four acres he threshed 140 bushels. Mr. Moeller also has a very fine field of corn.

Herman Guznov is building a machine shed, 24 by 48 feet with a corn crib attached.

FARMERS BENEFIT BY TEACHER'S AID
Instructor Standardizes Cotton Crop and Promotes Co-operative Spirit

Taylor, Tex.—Where ten varieties of cotton were grown in a haphazard manner, within a five-mile area of this little town, only one standard crop grows today.

Where thousands of dollars formerly were sent out of the community, for seed each year, this amount is saved and greater profits are coming in to the farmers.

These are just two of the advantages enjoyed by the cotton growers of this district, through the genius in leadership and organization displayed by a vocational instructor. The man is W. N. Elam who has been teaching in the local high school under auspices of the Federal Board of Vocational Education.

A stronger line in 1925, Elam sought out the leading cotton farmers in this 50 per cent cotton district, got them into a conference and after three years of instruction, organization and cooperation, he reports these accomplishments:

1.—Standardization of the community to one variety of cotton where ten varieties grew before.
2.—Instruction in a farmers evening school on cotton production.
3.—Establishment of a $55,000 pure seed gin owned exclusively by the cotton farmers.

4.—Organization of a permanent cotton farmers' organization for the welfare of the cotton growers.
5.—Establishment of two cotton breeding farms conducted by this organization as a source of pure seed for the community.

FEW APPLES TO EXPORT
While America's apple crop this year is expected to be light, Canada's yield and those of England, France and Germany will be better than last year's. Competition in the export field therefore will be against us.

EARLY PICKING HURTS
Peaches picked green or immature are not like bananas or pears. While the latter improve in quality and flavor, peaches must be picked just before soft ripe to be most eatable. They lose their flavor if kept many days in cold storage.

FARM SCHOOL GRADS FIND EMPLOYMENT IN VARIETY OF LINES

Bankers, County Agents and Journalists Among Activities of Graduates

Madison—(P)—The University of Wisconsin agricultural college's "products" are not solely farmers, although the basis which they obtain their varied positions is an agricultural training.

The graduates of the agricultural college go into commercial phases of farming, agricultural extension and county agent work, banks, development companies and railroads in their connection with farming, become vocational agricultural teachers, take college positions, join the agricultural press, enter commercial firms research departments, the foreign agricultural service, and myriad other lines, a survey of the present employment of graduates reveals.

The agricultural college officials said that farm superintendents and managers are in demand and that many graduates accept these posts as an opportunity to accumulate capital preparatory to future ownership of farms. A comparatively small percentage return to farm work with their relatives or on their own farms, the survey shows.

WANTED BY MANUFACTURER
Manufacturers of farm implements, saw engines, dairy products, want and attract many men with agricultural college training for offices, field, extension and sales work.

Many of the graduates have gone into state and federal service as extension agents, county agents and specialists in various lines of governmental agricultural work.

The banks and development companies acquire many of the graduates as their agricultural representatives. Many others go into service in high schools through the federal aid for vocational agriculture.

Students who have made good records and have practical experience are called into college positions as teachers, research and extension workers. Many others continue their schooling at the same time through scholarships and part-time pay.

The field of agricultural journalism and advertising provides a promising outlook for those inclined toward both the pen and the plow.

The college received many calls from foreign countries for men as farm managers, teachers and extension specialists.

Miscellaneous work that attracts graduates of the Badger farm school includes: county U. M. C. A. workers; drainage engineer, bacteriologists, soil surveyor, manager of city milk supply, creamery work; shipping associations, other associations and organizations connected with agriculture and veterinary work.

CANADA PROGRESSES
A mark of Canada's progress in farming is shown by its increased manufacture of farm implements. More than $17,000,000 worth of such implements were exported alone.

ENGLISH BODY DEBATES FRESH EGG AGE LIMIT

London—(P)—When is an egg bad?

That is what a committee appointed by the Ministry of Agriculture is trying to ascertain. The committee has had sittings with the National Farmers' Union and the National Poultry Council on the application for an order making the marketing of imported eggs compulsory.

Many poultry dealers said they agreed that the age limit for a fresh egg was 14 days. A Lethal Importer, however, said that he had frequently eaten Russian eggs, cooked in various ways, which were six weeks old, but were quite fresh.

Then said the chairman of the committee: "I don't suppose you'd say you eat them from preference, but rather by way of experience."

SHEEP PAY BEST
Records of a flock of sheep maintained for 12 years on the Piedmont Branch station farm in North Carolina reveal that no farm animals pay better than sheep. The flock increases rapidly, lambs are valuable and then there is income from the wool.

A suggestion was made to the Department of Agriculture that the trees of the giant cottonwood forests and other woods in the recent flood areas of the Mississippi be cut down to make room for the waters of any future flood. But Associate Forester E. A. Sherman believes the space taken up by the trees is comparatively negligible over that of the area covered by the flood.

A study of rainfall in open and forest areas made by Prof. L. T. Bole of Iowa State College, shows that forest soils absorb and hold more water than open soils, thus helping much in the prevention of floods. While water runs off rapidly on open ground, it is allowed to seep out only gradual in wooded areas.

Buyers of alfalfa, red clover and other seeds soon will be assured of their true origin, which is of primary importance, with the inauguration of a seed verification service by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The seeds hereafter will carry a "verified" origin seed certificate, issued by this service.

The college received many calls from foreign countries for men as farm managers, teachers and extension specialists.

Miscellaneous work that attracts graduates of the Badger farm school includes: county U. M. C. A. workers; drainage engineer, bacteriologists, soil surveyor, manager of city milk supply, creamery work; shipping associations, other associations and organizations connected with agriculture and veterinary work.

Crop Rotation Valuable As Use Of Fertilizers

Crop rotation is a farm practice which may be used by the farmer to increase the productivity of his soils as effectively as the use of manure or commercial fertilizers, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Furthermore, crop rotation as ordinarily practiced does not entail any extra cost. The extra yield due to this practice is therefore a profit that may be credited the farmer's managerial ability.

A study of the long-continued soil-fertility experiments of this country, and of England, made by the department, has brought out some important facts about crop rotation in its relation to soil productivity. These are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1473-1, just issued. In general, crop rotation has been found to be practically 25 per cent as effective as farm manure or complete fertilizer in maintaining the yield of wheat, corn, and oats, and about 50 per cent as effective as these fertilizers in increasing the yields of three major crops. The beneficial effects of crop rotation do not impair the benefits derived from the use of fertilizers, so that when these two farm practices are combined the one practice adds to the benefits of the other.

For example, corn at the Missouri experiment station yielded 22.4 bushels per acre from cultivation alone. When corn was manured the yield was increased by 14.7 bushels, or to 37.1 bushels per acre; when it was grown in rotation with other crops the yield was increased by 15.1 bushels, or to 37.5 bushels per acre. However, when both manuring and rotation were practiced, the acre yield was increased by 25.3 bushels, or to 62.7 bushels per acre.

Even more striking results than the above were recorded in trials at Urbana, Ill. In these experiments the use of fertilizers consisting of pulverized limestone, farm manure, and phosphate, was compared with a rotation of corn, oats, and clover. The average yield of corn obtained without the use of either rotation or fertilizers on this particular prairie soil in Illinois was 23.4 bushels per acre. The gain effected by rotation alone was practically three times that obtained from the use of fertilizers and lime, or 27.5 bushels due to rotation, and only 9.2 due to the fertilizers. The total increase from the use of both fertilizers and rotation was 44.2 bushels per acre, or 7.2 bushels greater than the sum of their separate increases. In other words, each practice, when joined with the other, gave a better result than when used alone.

While rotations in different sections, in a given locality, or even on a single farm may differ, there are certain fundamental principles of crop rotation which have general application. These must be understood by the farmer if he is to put himself in a position to utilize the results that have been worked out by State experiment stations for his locality. The purpose of this bulletin is to acquaint the farmer with the basic principles of crop rotation, and the steps to be followed in the practice in relation to farming. A report of the bulletin may be obtained, by mail, from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—The Clintonville Lions held the formal opening of their new country clubhouse on Tuesday evening. They had as their guests, members of the Lions clubs of New London and Waupaca, with their wives. A 6 o'clock dinner was served by the wives of the local club.

The principal speakers of the evening were Attorney Paul Winter of Shawano, and the Rev. S. C. Ruess of the Plymouth Congregational church at Madison. When the Rev. Mr. Ruess was pastor of the Congregational church at Clintonville he was an enthusiastic member of the Lions club and "live in all community enterprises. This is his first meeting with the club since his recent return to this country after a years absence on a trip around the world.

The Clintonville Lions club was organized in this city about three years ago. In purchasing property on Long lake they started the first movement for developing this beautiful little lake, which has excellent fishing, fine lying beaches and is surrounded with good stands of timber on three sides. The club owns 300 feet of frontage and several acres of land adjoining the lake.

The clubhouse is of the rustic type, with exterior log effect. There is a large hall 28 by 40 feet, a screened porch 12 feet wide running the entire length of the building and facing the lake, dressing rooms for women and for men, and a kitchen.

It was built by H. F. Songstock, local contractor. Much of the work such as filling in the grounds, painting the building, etc., was well and building a dock has been done by members of the club. The building is well equipped with furniture, rugs, kitchen utensils, dishes, stoves, and numerous other articles donated by members. Curtains and window seat covers were made by the wives of the club members. Several boats and a radio have also been donated.

The clubhouse was erected for general recreation purposes, for the members and their families. When the grounds have been put into condition and seeded they will afford excellent facilities for a practice golf course, tennis, base ball, horseshoe and other games. These are some of the aims for future development planned by the club. It will also afford the club an excellent place to carry on its civic activities, such as giving children of the city outings at the lake and camping excursions.

MAY WISHES BARNEY HAD HER JOB SINCE HIS BILL WAS PASSED

Madison—(AP)—May Spiles, state employee, is "just a little bit put out at Barney Spott."

It really isn't the young Milwaukee assemblyman's fault that he should introduce a bill which became a law and make the young lady put out at Barney Spott.

Just the same Barney did it and May thinks he "ought to have known better."

The bill which Assemblyman Spott introduced provided that notaries public must have certain qualifications, and Miss Spiles has charge of the notaries public department.

"Barney is one of us little fellows," May argued. "Why didn't he wish that job off one some big, fat person?" May is just exactly five feet tall and weighs only 30 pounds.

She looked at the stack of applications.

"Out of the way, big people," she sighed. "It's late in the year and I have to take care of 16,000 'qualifications'."

Arizona Fighting For Water Rights In Building Of Dam On Colorado River

BY DWIGHT B. HEARD

It has been explained why Arizona opposes the Swing-Johnson bill for Colorado river development. Through the activities of the Arizona Colorado River Development Association, Arizona stands for definite, constructive plan of action for Colorado river development, which is to be included in a new Colorado river control bill in the next Congress.

Arizona's people believe they have certain fundamental and definite rights to the use of the Colorado river, which may be summarized as follows:

1—The unqualified constitutional right to the use and disposal of the water of the Colorado river as it flows through Arizona's borders.

2—The ownership of the stream bed of the Colorado river within Arizona.

3—The right to a revenue in lieu of taxation for the use of the fall of the huge flow of the Colorado, which fall within Arizona amounts to 2369 feet.

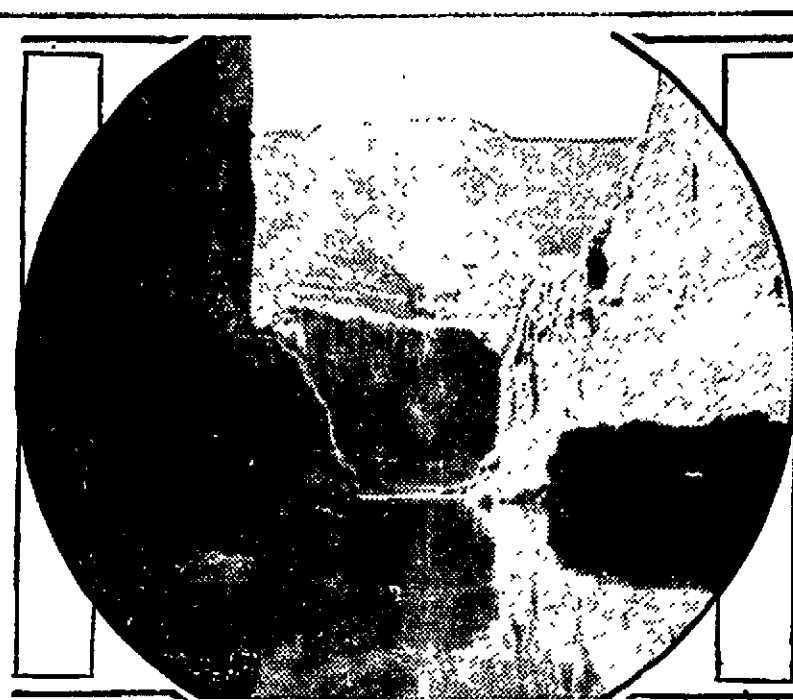

4—The right that no dam or dams wholly or partly in Arizona can be constructed without the consent of the state.

BASIC PRINCIPLES

The new bill for Colorado river control, generally approved by the people of Arizona and which will be introduced early in the next Congress, will undoubtedly be based on the following principles:

1—Recognition by Congress that, as the Colorado river is a great interstate stream on which flood control is largely a national obligation, one-quarter of the total cost of the first greater river control and development

ADVOCATED AS SITE OF DAM

Marble Canyon dam site, 20 miles below Lee's Ferry, Arizona, is advocated by Arizona as a site where the Colorado river's waters could be equally divided among the lower basin states between Arizona and California.

project to include flood control, large storage for agricultural and domestic uses, desiltation, and power development, shall be borne outright by the federal government.

2—Agreement by Arizona of the need of complete co-operation between the Colorado river basin states and the federal government in this development program, which co-operation must be based on just recognition of the equal rights of both state and federal governments.

3—Provision—to be reinforced by a treaty between the United States and Mexico—that all Colorado river water stored in the United States shall be unqualifiedly reserved for beneficial use within the United States.

4—Provision that in any Colorado river development—through the use of federal funds—at sites wholly or partly within Arizona there shall be reserved a reasonable block of power at cost, for the purpose of Arizona development by public or private agencies.

STATE PROPERTY

5—Agreement that after all obligations to the federal government have been met, the project works and all benefits therefrom, shall become the property of the state or states in which such project is located.

6—Recognition that the approval of the Colorado river compact by all the seven Colorado river basin states is essential to a comprehensive development of the river, free from friction and litigation.

7—The willingness of Arizona to approve the Colorado river compact when a just agreement between the lower basin states of Arizona, California and Nevada, covering their rights to the use of water and a reasonable annual revenue for their contribution to natural resources for power production, has been reached and approved by the federal government.

TRI-STATE AGREEMENT

8—The inclusion of the following points in such a tri-state agreement between the lower basin states: (A)—The reservation for beneficial use within each of the lower basin states of the water rising in tributaries of the Colorado river within the boundaries of such state.

(B)—The use by Nevada of 300,000 acre feet of water annually, or as much thereof as she can practically use in the reclamation of Nevada lands.

(C) Equal division, measured at Lee's Ferry of the balance of the Colorado river's flow allotted to the lower basin states between Arizona and California.

(D)—Provision that states contributing of their natural resources for power production shall, in lieu of taxation, receive a reasonable annual revenue in proportion to the contribution of such resources.

DIVERSION VIEWPOINT

If the above agreement can be reached, it is highly probable that Arizona, recognizing the urgency of California's need for a domestic water supply from the Colorado river, will be willing to waive her legal right to prevent California's desired diversion of practically 1,000,000 feet annually outside the Colorado river basin.

If Arizona, California and Nevada cannot agree on the location of the first dam for the benefit of the lower basin states, this determination can be left to a small, highly qualified engineering commission, appointed by the president of the United States with the approval, if desired, of the governors of the seven Colorado basin states.

Such a commission should reach its decision from the standpoint of safety, practicability, revenue producing possibilities and the best ultimate development of the three states involved. The people of these states can well afford to accept the decision of such a commission and proceed to action.
